Three removes are said to be as bad as a fire. This is an ancient remark, and if ever it was true we suspect the unfortunate people who are called on to move this let of April—this very inclement and messonable 1st of April-are convinced that it must be this year. The personal discomfort to families compelled to move must be very great at a time like this, saymust be very great at a time that stay, say-ing nothing of the positive injury to health and the damage to household goods. Gen-stally speaking, the lat of April is a season of spring sunshine, and people are not compelled to wade through snow and slush or shiver in a winter rain. This year, however, it is different. Between costly caskets, costly corteges, costly burial grounds and costly monuments, it is the only escape of people in moderate circumstances.

Of course there is a sentiment that will never be overcome, that craves the preservation of the forms of near and dear friends, especially of "the dead who die young," in the beauty and bloom of youth. This sentiment will live forever, but notwithstanding its existence there will be increasing thousands who will desire their own cremation, and these multitudes will in the end make the practice familiar if not popular in the eyes of the

I will sail for Paris on Tuesday next. The project is certainly a good one. If I did not think so I would not go as a delegate. Mr. Evarts, who is more conversant with the arrangements, was very ranguine of success the last time I saw him. As for myself I see no reason why satisfactory results should not be brought about, because I think that the world is ready for some change. As to what that change is likely to be I do not know; as to what we may expect I do not care to state, because I think it would be presumption on the part of the Commissioners from this country for them to state publicly what they hoped to accomtate publicly what they hoped to accom-"How long do you expect to be gone?"

"What are the probabilities of an extra session later in the session?"
"I think the chances are very much in favor of one being held, say in October. The not holding of one this spring, I think is a good thing for the country."
"And not for the Republican party?"
"Well, let me see. Precedents show that extra session have always been damaging to the administration, except the one called by Mr. Lincoln. That, of course, was an extraordinary occasion."

ASSAULT ON AN ATTORNEY

CHEYENNE, March 31.—A special from Sidney, Nebraska, tells of an attack on at-torney W. H. Michael, of that city: "This evening a desperate character named Tom Pean attempted to assassinate W.H. Michacis, an attorney here. With a title. Hydrindicted an ugly cut on the head of Michaels, but failed in his findish purpose, owing to the resistance of Michaels. The cause of the attack was that Michaels has appeared against Ryan a short time since and se-sured his conviction for biting a piece out f the lip of a freighter named Emerson, with whom he had an altercation, and for with whom he had an altercation, and for this the desperado sought his life. A few years ago Ryan shot Tom Vane, another attorney, through the mouth, and is noted as being the boon companion of the most desperate characters on the border. Mr. Michael was formerly editor of the Sidney Plaindealer. The would-be murderer made his escape on his own horse which he had in waiting before any attempt could be made to arreat him. Great excitement and indignation prevails."

Not Content to Bide His Time, the In perious Rescoe will Take Occasion No Appearance of an End to the Dead Lock.

Washington, D. C., March 31 .- Senato Conkling is determined to make a relent less war against Robertson and the ad responsible for the nomination. Conkling expects to be defeated and realizes that there is a principle involved, and that he the only Senator who would vote against Robertson. It is said Conkling will not wait for the Executive Session to proclaim his position and reasons for antagonizing the administration, but that he will take his position and reasons for antagonizing the administration, but that he will take the oportunity in open session so that his positiom may be put before the country correctly and not misrepresented as might be if stated in Executive Session.

Mr. Conkling holds that it is his duty to oppose Mr. Robertson; that his confirmation would be more towards disorganizing the present Repulican organization in New York; that Mr. Robertson's administration of the Collector's office would sutagonize the present Republican organization, disrupt the party and cause its defeat in New York. Mr. Conkling's position further is that it is his duty to protect and maintain the present Republican organization, which won victory after victory in New York. There is a division of the Republican Senators in regard to the federal appointments, but the President gave them to understand that no objectionable men would be appointed.

Mr. Conkling further holds that though he will probably be beaten in this first contest that the fight will go outside of the Senate chamber; that if Blaine be permitted to take charge of the New York Republican party and appointments, that he and his supporters may run it in 1884 and elect a Republican ticket then if they can. It is positively asserted that eight or tan Democratic Senators will you with the middle of the positively asserted that eight or tan Democratic Senators will you with the middle of the positively asserted that eight or tan Democratic Senators will you with the middle of the positively asserted that eight or tan Democratic Senators will you with the middle of the position of the ontinues and no one pretends to say when it will end. The situation, however has materily changed since the beginning Then it was viewed by Democrats as an effort to carry out a bargain with Mahone by electing Riddleberger Sergeant-at-Arms. Democratic Senators are now beginning to realize that questions of far Arms. Democratic Sonators are now beginning to realize that questions of far greater political importance are involved in the struggle than the election of Riddeberger. They are beginning to realize too that they are playing into Conkling's hand by keeping up their policy of obstruction. So long as the dead-lock continues the confirmation of Robertson or anybody else for that matter is out of the question. Conkling and his coadjutors are doing all in their power to prolong the contest, while the Democrats, who would like to have Robertson at once confirmed, are by their filbustering doing just what Conkling would have them to do. Some Demaratic Senators are getting tired of thus indirectly furnishing aid to Conkling and helping him in his war on the administration, and are looking for a way out of their present position. Thinking Democrats believe that their party has far more to gain by the prompt confirmation of Robertson than by keeping up an ineffectual struggle against the election of Gorham and Riddleberger. Several Administration Senators on the Republican side, too, are very weary of the discussion, and it is predicted that belore many days some of their number will vote with the Democrats to go into Executive session. New complications over Robertson's nomination, will, sooner or later, no doubt bring the dead-lock to an end.

MENT FROM THE CABINET s sgain the subject of speculation. It is claimed that he has exerted himself to de feat the confirmation of Chandler and test the confirmation of Chandler and Robertson. The President's friends rep-resent that he is disposed to take Mac-Veagh's reported interference very seri-ously. It is also stated that the story that the nominations which are said to give onense to Senators Conkling and Platt were made with the knowledge of these gentlemen, and not without consulting them, as maintained. It is not likely that the name of either Chandler or Robert-son will be withdrawn, the opposi-tion to these appointments having apparently confirmed the President in his original intention set to be the name of either Chandler or Robert son will be withdrawn, the opposition to these appointments havin apparently confirmed the President in horiginal intention not to be overruled at ter his selections of officers had been made and their aamee sent to the Senat for confirmation, unless something is brought forward to convince him of the appeintee's unfitness, of which he did not know when the nominations were made now when the nominations were mad Appropos of his willingness to reconsider the Approposion willing dess to reconsider the appointments for other than political reasons, it is mentioned that certain citizens of Buffalo have made so strong a case sgainst Tyler on the ground of his unfitness for the position of Collector that his name will probably be withdrawn.

A FUSS IN THE FAMILY. NEW YORK, March 31 .- A dispatch from St. Petersburg states that a violent ouarrel broke out in the Imperial family in Constantine, strongly suspected of Ni-Constantine, strongly suspected of Ni-hilism, is "about to resign the high post of Grand Admiral and Minister of Marine. It is also reported that Constan-tine will resign in favor of Alex. The story is that when Constantine, who is the hero of the diamond stealing story, ap-plied for permission to pay his respects to the remains of the late Monarch, the Constant him is really as the statement. the remains of the late Monarch, the Caar sent him in reply an open telegram with the royal signature, addressed "To him who is unworthy the name of Grand Duke," and branding him as a disgrace to his family and Russia, and abraptly refusing him permission to visit the Capitol. Immediately after the departure of foreign Princes measures of extreme severity will be taken against the Nibilists.

HERR MASS, AND THE COMMOTION HE IS

London, March 31 .- Herr Mast, of the Freiheit, was arranged before the Judges of the Bow street Police Court to-day. Poland in opening the case against Mast, said there was no wish to interfere with the freedom of the press, and that Mast had a right to publish anything a British subject might publish. He then read an article in the Freiheit of the 19th of March. Some persons applauded the passage lauding the murder of the Czar and were ejected. Mr. Poland pointed out an article containing a direct incentive to the murder of the Emperor of Germany, who was described as the "Ere while grape-shot Frince of Pruseia," and added that the act provided that persons inciting to murder were guilty or a misdemeanor and liable to penal servitude for the maximum term of the years or the minimum term of the years or the minimum term of three years, or two years imprisonment with hard labor. It would be a scandal to justice if the act was not enforced against a person connected with the publication of such articles.

The police who arrested Herr Mast said that he described himself as the editor of the firthetic words the automatical reforms lagrance with the distance increases and a coallition party for the realization of bis financial reforms lagrance and coalition party for the realization of bis financial reforms lagrance and coalition party for the realization of bis financial reforms lagrance and a coalition party for the realization of bis financial reforms lagrance with the ultramontanes increases and a coalition party for the realization of bis financial reforms lagrance and camp, of about 100 lodges, arrived at Wood mountain, B. the	We have in our possession

We have in our possession statements in every case from the Secretary of State. These having been carefully checked with the total footings, are accurate, and it may now be considered as established for the first time that the actual plurality of Garfield our Hancock Hancock field over Hancock, based upon a compar-ison of the highest vote given for the elec-tors of each party in each State, is 3,523, neither more or less.

neither more or less.

This may be accepted as an answer to the very numerous questions we have receited on this subject, as it will be accepted by the country generally as finally settling this much vexed question. There are political lessons to be drawn from the fact of so small a plurality in so immense a vote, which we leave to others to point out.

GARFIELD IS PRESIDENT.

and he Politely Says So, "and Don't You Forget It." WASHINGTON, March 31.-A group of gentlemen who were in the Executive Mansion to-day heard the following conversation between the President and a Megber of Congress who was opposing the appointment of a Postmaster. The President remarked that the principal point under discussion was whether the present incumbent, who had served but four years, was a worthy and efficient man.

"So far as I can lerrn," said the President, "the citizens of that place seem to be nearly unanimous in his favor."

The Congressman replied: "I supposed I was the representative of my district, and my wishes would be respected. They were not during the last administration, and I suppose they will not be during the last administration."

and I suppose they will not be during this."

The President remarked:
"Ceftainly, sir; you are the representative of the district, and I am desirous of availing myself of your information concerning the officers of your district, but the appointing power is lodged with me, and not with the representatives of the various districts, and I do not intend to divest myself of my proper authority or responsibility in such matters."
